TWO MORE AMERICAN-OWNED MERCHANTMEN TORPEDOED

Peak Believed Passed in Assault on Russian Capital

SINKINGS OCCUR OFF AFRICAN COAST AND IN ICELAND WATERS

Washington, Oct. 22.—(P)—The Maritime Commission said today it had been advised of the rescue of all the 39 Americans of the crew of the torpedoed American freighter Lehigh.

Twenty-two men were landed at Bathurst by the British ship Vimy and 17 at Freetown. Since the crew included only 3, officials expressed the belief that the others were stowaways.

The news gave a measure of relief to this capital, perturbed though it still was over the loss of two more American-owned ships to Atlantic raiders.

The sea war's toll of American vessels now stands at 10 and President Roosevelt made plain that he considered the Lehigh's sinking a particularly flagrant act of piracy.

None of the Lehigh survivors landed at Bathurst was injured, according to the commission's information, while two of those landed at Freetown suffered injuries.

The condition of Joseph Brady, Jr., third assistant engineer, was described as "rather serious." He suffered chest and leg injuries.

The other injured crew member was Joseph Bartlett, an ordinary seaman, who lost three toes, but whose condition was described as not serious.

The latest ships to be lost were the Lehigh, which went down flying the American flag Sunday off the west coast of Africa, and the Bold Venture, American-owned, but operating under the Panamanian registry, which was sent to the bottom off Iceland last Thursday.

Eighteen members of the Bold Venture crew are still missing, on the basis of revised Maritime Commission figures. The United States Lines said at New York today that all 39 of the Lehigh's crew had been saved. The Lehigh crew was composed of American citizens, while the Bold Venture's numbered several nationalities, all foreign.

The Maritime Commission said the Bold Venture crew numbered 35, instead of 32 as originally announced. Seventeen have landed at Reykjavik, Iceland.

Navy patrols deployed through the north and south Atlantic in the search for survivors and also for a shooting chance at any raider encountered in the process.

President Roosevelt himself announced the torpedoing of the Lehigh at his press conference yesterday—with regret, he said solemnly—and he dwelt pointedly on the circumstances of the sinking. There was no doubt he regarded it as an additional argument for putting guns on American merchantmen.

The Lehigh, he said, had discharged a cargo at Bilbao, Spain, and was proceeding southward empty, without cargo, on a trading voyage to the Gold Coast. She was sunk just north of the equator between South America and Africa, he said, but nearer to the southern end of the bulge of Africa. She was flying the Stars and Stripes.

After reporting that one lifeboat had been picked up—it contained 22 survivors, some of them wounded by the torpedo explosion—and two other lifeboats were still missing, Mr. Roosevelt indicated he thought the fact of the incident were eloquent enough.

He took the trouble, however, to stress a second "me that the American merchantman carried no cargo and informed sources said later that this fact was important, for it eliminated any question of contraband as an attempted excuse for the torpedoing.

A newsman sought to locate the sinking with relation to the western hemisphere.

"On what side was it?" he asked Mr. Roosevelt.

The president turned almost sharply to face his questioner.

It was on the seven seas, he said with noticeable sternness, as if to make clear that the location made no difference.

Another inquiry: Was it outside the blockade zone?

Whose blockade zone? the president wanted to know.

"The so-called German blockade zone," he was told.

Mr. Roosevelt said that it was, commenting on the necessity of "so-called" to describe the zone.

ITALY REPORTS RAF ATTACK ON CITY OF NAPLES

Rome, Oct. 22.—(P)—British bombers, attacking Naples in a wave an hour for five hours, caused huge damage last night in the war's heaviest assault on Italy's big west coast maritime and industrial center, the High Command declared today.

Bombs, dropped by the hundreds, were said to have killed 14 and injured 27.

It was the second raid on the city in less than a week, British planes having carried out an attack last Thursday night which the Italians said killed 12 persons and injured 37.

Casualties from last night's raid, during which waves of planes dropped hundreds of incendiaries and explosive bombs, totaled 14 dead and 27 injured, a communiqué declared.

The city, located on the Italian west coast, has a population of about 925,000 and is a maritime and industrial center.

British air raiders also were reported to have attacked off-bombard Catania, Sicily, again last night. One of the attackers was shot down in flames, the high command said.

ANNIVERSARY IS BEING OBSERVED AT BOYS TOWN

BY ODELL HANSON
Boys Town, Neb., Oct. 22.—(P)—Boys of a humanitarian impulse and nurtured on the faith of an endless string of creditors and the generosity of thousands of Americans, Father Flanagan's city of little men is 20 years old today—and still courting creditors.

From a farm atop a hill 10 miles west of Omaha, to which the young moved from his boys and belongings just two decades ago, has sprung a dream city—20 buildings in a 760-acre site.

But the man with the mortgage still hanging around.

It's not the uphill battle it once was, Father Flanagan assures, recalling a time when debts of between $500,000 and $400,000 hung over the city like an ominous cloud.

"I've always battled with debts and mortgages," he recounted. "For 5 years I didn't seem to get any where. People seemed to regard children as disagreeable, annoying—not as kind of God."

Father Flanagan had been working among what he terms "lost" children and vowed that "if I possibly could, I would do something so that a boy could say he didn't have a chance."

The first years were a trying period, Father Flanagan said, "but a banker or money lender ever at a penny on Boys Town."

Today the municipality, boasting

TWO ARE KILLED IN PLANE CRASH

San Antonio, Tex., Oct. 22.—(P)—A collision of two night-patroling planes, first disclosed by a highway patrolman who found the wreckage of one plane blocking a road, killed a Kelly Field instructor and a cadet early today. An observer was injured critically.

Traffic on the road 12 miles north of San Antonio was delayed for several hours.

The dead were Lieut. Harold H. Jessen, of San Antonio, Tex., instructor, and Cadet A. B. O'Brien, of Grand Rapids, Mich.

Critically injured was George Meador, 23, Narrows, Va.

The crash occurred while the two ships were returning to their base because of weather conditions. Jessen's plane first landed in a field, then bounced and skidded 700 yards to the Fredericksburg highway. O'Brien's plane fell about 300 yards from Jessen's.

MEXICO - BRITISH RELATIONS ARE AGAIN FRIENDLY

Mexico City, Oct. 22.—(P)—Another link between Great Britain and the western hemisphere was restored today by the decision of Britain and Mexico to resume diplomatic relations after a lapse of more than three years.

Bringing to an end the break which resulted from the Cardenas administration's expropriation of foreign-owned oil properties was acclaimed by Mexican authorities as symbolizing "the united front of our two democracies in the present crisis."

Announcement of a joint agreement to exchange ministers made no reference to the oil expropriation issue, and authoritative sources said the decision to exchange ministers was reached without any commitments in regard to that problem.

Relations with London were severed by Mexico on May 13, 1938, after receipt of three sharp British notes protesting the expropriation and Mexico's failure to pay an installment on British claims for damages growing out of the seizure.

White House Emphasizes Roosevelt Desires Early Attention to Changes; Campaign to Scrap Law Seen in Senate

Washington, Oct. 22.—(P)—The White House emphasized today that President Roosevelt wanted early attention by congress to further neutrality act revision to permit American vessels to enter belligerent ports.

Stephen Early, presidential secretary, told reporters the president in his message asking lifting of the ban against arming American merchantmen did not close the door to eliminating another section which bars such vessels from combat zones and belligerent ports.

In the senate, a campaign to scrap the act completely and authorize American ships to go anywhere was given impetus by the record of six American-owned ships sunk in as many weeks.

Early brought up the subject at his press conference to clarify a presidential report yesterday to a reporter's question as to whether he joined Secretary of State Hull in favor of repeal of the belligerent port section.

Early said the president replied

URGES FEDERAL AUTHORITIES TO PREVENT STRIKE

Pittsburgh, Oct. 22.—(P)—Sheriff John Heinz said today the A. F. of L. threat to call a city-wide strike as the result of a dispute with the Duquesne Light Company was "a terrible mistake" and that the federal government "should step in and take control before it gets started."

The AFL Building Trades Council and Central Labor Union have scheduled the strike for next Monday but James Ahearn, strike committee chairman, said it might be postponed "if conditions warrant."

The controversy grew out of the AFL's demand that the Duquesne Company employ AFL craftsmen on the construction of an $8,000,000 generating plant at Wretton, near Pittsburgh.

Sheriff Heinz said it would be impossible to recruit 10,000 guards in the event of a strike as suggested by Dr. Samuel Harden Church, President of Carnegie Institute. Heinz declared, however, that as soon as any violence occurred he would ask Governor James for state police aid and would hire additional deputies in the event of "a real emergency."

The Independent Association of Duquesne Light Company Employees, bargaining agent for Duquesne employees by virtue of a victory in a State Labor Board election, reported its men would continue to work in the event the AFL strike materializes.

German-Allied Occupation Of Donets Basin Pictured As Paralyzing Blow to Russians; Invasion Armies Encompassing New Territory to South; Silent on Moscow Action

CONFIDENT OF FALL OF RED ARMY FORCES

Berlin, Oct. 22.—(P)—The expansion of the German-Allied occupation of the Donets basin was announced by the high command today and these gains were pictured as a paralyzing blow to the Russians.

The invasion armies were encompassing new territory in the south, it was indicated, soon after the capture of Staling, munitions centered 100 miles northwest of Rostov, was officially reported yesterday.

The high command said nothing directly concerning the Moscow offensive.

Mopping up operations in the Byansk area southwest of Moscow yesterday were said to have led to the capture of 5,000 prisoners, a heavy Soviet tank and 56 guns.

The high command said seizure of the island of Dago, announced yesterday, had rid the whole Baltic region of Russian forces.

The island was said to have been cleared, with capture of 3,000 prisoners, in 10 days of fighting launched October 12 by naval and air units and a German infantry division.

Six coastal batteries were destroyed, the high command said, and remnants of the Soviet forces were said to have been destroyed in attempts to escape by sea.

The war bulletin said engineer corps assault boats played a special part in the landing on the Baltic islands and added that Finnish naval forces supported the operations.

A new bombing of Moscow by day and night was reported.

As the German-Russian war entered its fifth month the Germans claimed that their latest victories had dealt a paralyzing blow to Soviet industry.

Official German circles appeared confident the great Russian military machine was tottering on the brink of final collapse and that the Soviet capital itself was faced with certain capture.

GERMANS SHOOT 50 FRENCHMEN IN RETALIATION

Marshal Petain Appeals to Countrymen to Refrain From Further Incidents After Second Officer Is Killed

MORE ARE ARRESTED

Vichy, Unoccupied France, Oct. 22.—(P)—Marshal Philippe Petain, chief of staff, announced to the French nation today that 50 of their countrymen had been shot by German occupation authorities this morning in retaliation for the assassination of German officers.

His broadcast followed news that the second German officer assassinated in 48 hours met death yesterday in Bordeaux.

Admiral Jean Darlan, vice premier, followed his chief on the radio, in a series of emotional appeals to the populace by France's highest authorities.

Both the marshal and the admiral accused "foreign powers" of having caused the recent series of assassinations.

There were no details on how the first 50 hostages were shot at Nantes. Another 50 are scheduled to die if the two men who shot Lieut. Col. Paul Friederich Holtz, chief of the Nazi field gendarmerie at Nantes, are not captured by midnight tomorrow.

In measured tones Petain announced to the French:

"Against officers of the army of occupation shots have been fired. Two are dead. Fifty Frenchmen this morning have paid with their lives for these unnameable crimes. Fifty others will be shot tomorrow if the culprits are not found."

The second officer was reported to have been shot dead by two youths on the boulevard St. Georges in occupied Bordeaux at 7:45 p. m. last night.

The Germans immediately arrested 50 hostages in Bordeaux, indicating a determination to continue the policy of stern reprisal.

Witnesses of the killings said four youths shot the officer and fled. They described the assailants as resembling workmen and put their ages as between 17 and 20.

The latest killing followed by less than 48 hours the slaying of Lieut. Col. Holtz for which German occupation authorities have threatened 100-for-one vengeance.

At the same time a reward of 15,000,000 francs (nominally $345,000) was offered for information leading to the arrest of the gunman who killed Colonel Holtz.

Four French police officers of Nantes—a colonel and three captains—were under arrest, but the Germans said they were not held as hostages.

Even before the German order was issued the Germans had executed a total of 84 French prisoners in an effort to check terrorism and sabotage.

Neutral Observer Says Reports Indicate Attack on Moscow and in North Definitely Halted; Asserts Both Red and German Armies Exhausted By Gigantic Struggle

CIRCLING THREAT IS STILL FACING CITY

London, Oct. 22.—(P)—A high ranking neutral observer said today that reliable information from Russia indicated the German attack on Moscow and in the north was definitely halted.

He said indications were that the peak of the German assault had been passed.

"Undoubtedly Hitler will order and carry out new attacks," the source said, "but he will not again be able to muster anything like the strength he has used up in the past two weeks."

He asserted, however, that the Red Army, as well as the German, is "exhausted by the gigantic struggle" which may mean that a small factor may tip the scales one way or the other.

He said the German army attack in the Donets basin "appears to lack the power of previous attacks" and that the German army now seemed to be "punching here and there looking for a weak spot."

He pointed out Hitler had failed to achieve the decisive result promised in his speech of Oct. 3, one day after the attack started.

Various advices from the Soviet reported the German offensive has bogged down in a howling Russian gale and all but impassable roads on the fiercely defended immediate approaches to Moscow, but the capital is being forced to fight off a wider circling threat.

Every ward of the battlefield in the Moshaisk sector, 57 miles west of the capital, is covered by the bodies of fallen Germans, said a Moscow broadcast of a Tass dispatch.

From Kuibyshev, where American correspondents have been sent with diplomats, an Associated Press dispatch said Premier Joseph Stalin and his highest aides remained within the walls of the Kremlin of the Red capital planning the defense.

Describing the journey to Kuibyshev, 550 miles east of Moscow, this dispatch said a steady stream of reserves was being sent to the

NEW LEND-LEASE APPROPRIATION BILL IN SENATE

Committee Report Reveals $325,000,000 Earmarked for 50 "Convoy Escort" Ships; Other Testimony Revealed

NO WAR RELIEF FUND

Washington, Oct. 22.—(P)—The $2,985,000,000 second lend-lease bill reached the senate today from its appropriations committee along with hitherto unpublished testimony that $25,000,000 of the money has been earmarked for 50 "convoy escort" ships.

Other testimony, made public by the committee in reporting the house-approved measure late yesterday, disclosed that it might become necessary to divert some of the new appropriation for aid to Russia, and that the present funds for purchase of food for Great Britain will be exhausted by the end of this month.

The bill will be taken up for debate tomorrow with prospects of speedy passage.

Chairman Adams (D-Colo.) said the subcommittee handling the appropriation did not include $50,000,000.

AWAITS REPORT OF CONDITIONS AT COAL MINES

Harrisburg, Oct. 22.—(P)—Governor James today awaited reports from the state police and the anthracite emergency committee on the dispatch which prompted a clash between free lance miners and the police near Mahanoy City last week, when more than a dozen workers were injured.

James halted all dynamiting of "beetles" coal holes pending his investigation. The trouble arose over the closing of one of the holes by the state police.

The emergency committee, representing the industry, plans to absorb bottled miners and their output at old holes, but has been following a policy of blasting new workings shut.

The governor said he had discussed the disturbance with Richard Maize, secretary of mines, and Col. Lynn G. Adams, commissioner of the state police, but would further reports on "just exactly what happened." The executive was honeymooning in Virginia when the clash occurred. He also asked for information "on what has been done to put the men back to work."

D. Leonard Corgan, secretary of the committee, said his group had compiled statistics on the number of miners taken back by the major companies which are back of the emergency plan, and also the tonnage purchased from the makeshift surface workings of the bottleggers.

DEATH PENALTY FOR CONFESSED SLAYER ORDERED

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 22.—(P)—Sixteen-year-old Raymond L. Woodward of Reading, who startled a courtroom crowd last Monday by pleading guilty to first degree murder in the mutilation of Constance Shipp, his 15-year-old schoolmate, was sentenced today to die in the electric chair during the week of Jan. 25, 1942.

The death penalty was mandatory under Massachusetts law.

Young Woodward's only hope of escaping death now lies with Governor Leverett Saltonstall and his executive council to whom counsel for the boy said today, an appeal for clemency would be taken within a few days.

The boy, who entered his almost unprecedented plea calmly on Monday, showed no outward sign of emotion today when he heard the solemn pronouncement of Superior Court Judge Harold P. Williams.

He walked from the courtroom with a firm step in the custody of a court officer.

Young Woodward, whose slender frame has taken on 11 pounds of additional weight since his arrest in Reading last July, passed his 16th birthday in jail. A previous sex offender, he was free on bail and probation for misdemeanor or when the Shipp girl vanished on July 15.

Four days later, her horrible mutilated body was found in the

Special $25 Prize Creates New Demand for Baby Election Votes

Attention, Parents!

If your favorite's name did not appear yesterday, be certain to hustle in some merchant coupons, or a subscription or two, to the election editor today and keep your baby's name in the list for the public's support. Just a little effort will do the trick. It is the sincere desire of those most closely associated with the election of the Community's Favorite Baby that as many babies as possible be kept in the voting list, but like all other elections of consequence, the baby election is a competitive enterprise where by some effort is necessary to claim the honors and the rewards.

The week is half over—the Baby Election is more than past the half-way mark, and with $25 cash being offered the baby totaling the greatest amount of votes by the coming Saturday night, there is an unprecedented demand for a place in the "Baby" list. As the German-Russian war entered its fifth month the Germans claimed that their latest victories had dealt a paralyzing blow to Soviet industry.

Official German circles appeared confident the great Russian military machine was tottering on the brink of final collapse and that the Soviet capital itself was faced with certain capture.

HISTORY DAYS ARE ATTRACTING MUCH ATTENTION

Early reports reaching those who are planning for Warren County's "History Days" indicate that there is a growing enthusiasm in these community-wide events.

Beginning on October 31st, Warren will be a Mecca for professionals and amateurs coming from away, as well as the local residents who are interested in the Indian history of this region. Delegations from the University of Pittsburgh, and Pennsylvania State College have already asked that reservations be made for them at the Kinzua luncheon on Saturday noon, November 1st, and at the Warren County Historical Society dinner on Saturday evening. A party of four from West Virginia says it is going to drive all night to be here in good time on Saturday morning. Several members of the State Historical Commission and the presidents of the State Federation of Historical Societies and the State Archeological Societies will be here for all of the meetings.

While this section is Pennsylvania's only Indian country today, and has always been connected with Indian history, little has been known about their earlier history, compared with the scientific investigations that have been conducted for many years in both New York and Ohio. This year the job was tackled, and the thousands of visitors to the Sugar Run site have indicated the intelligent curiosity of many people who are realizing for the first time the importance of Warren County as a source of material for Indian research.

Those who wish to learn more of the program, and take a part in it are reminded that membership applications in the Warren County Historical Society can be made by using the coupons appearing currently in the Times-Mirror, and that a membership entitles the holder to attend the dinner of the local society at the Y. W. C. A. building on Saturday, November 1st, providing memberships are received before October 29th.

BUSINESS MEN ATTEND CLINIC

H. W. Correll, secretary of the Warren Chamber of Commerce, was one of a group of Warren business men who attended the defense production clinic at Buffalo yesterday. Others were D. J. Cropp of the Cropp Engineering Corporation; J. E. Hazeltine, the Bashlin Co.; and C. R. Betts and C. J. Kauffman, of the Betts Foundry and Machine Co.

Forty-nine prime contractors had representatives at the clinic with blueprints and lists of their requirements, and more than three hundred prospective subcontractors from New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio were there to confer with them.

Correll announces that he has a copy of the program directory in which the requirements of prime contractors are listed, which may be consulted by any manufacturer desiring to consider defense work on a sub-contractor basis.

Italian Anti-Fascists Around World Building For 'Army of Liberation' to Free Native Land

BY THOMAS M. JOHNSON
NEA Service Military Writer

New York, Oct. 22.—Maneuvers of psychological warfare are back in the air in official Washington of a separate peace for Italy. The talk started with the President's conferences with the American ambassadors to Italy and the Vatican, William Phillips and Myron C. Taylor, against a background of reports of low morale in Italy. And it is more than just talk.

American Italians have been working to prepare the way for an invasion of Italy by an "Army of Liberation" not only British but Free Italian. Such a stroke, if successful, might take Italy out of the war as an ally of Germany and really many Italians to install a democratic government which would turn Italy against the Nazis. Propaganda is being instilled into Italy by several groups, notably the Mazzini Society. This organization of freedom-loving Italian-Americans has gone unnoticed amid talk of Fascist sentiment among Italian-Americans, yet it has branches in New York, Boston, Chicago, California and other Italian centers, and in Canada and Argentina. Its members here are hand-picked American citizens: no Communists or Fascists need apply, only Italian-Americans burning to restore to their country the liberal ideas of the 19th century Risorgimento that united Italy. That is the keynote of the Mazzini Society's broadside and pamphlets smuggled into Italy.

Sicilian Blood Boils

Despite Fascist propaganda, most Italians admire and respect the United States with a cordiality that increases with the aggressions of the Nazis, whom they hate. Such Italians are sending to America reports that Italy's state is even worse than news dispatches have indicated. Defeatism abounds. Mussolini is widely blamed for having got the country into an unnecessary war, which he has lost to Hitler. Even the Fascist party bosses are split; there is a "Fire Mussolini" faction. Some reports say two attempts have been made on his life. One informant has seen some of Mussolini's own secret police listening to British and Free Italian broadcasts.

German penetration has aroused fury, especially in Sicily, the Nazi base for operations in North Africa. Sicilian blood is boiling. The islanders' food is bad, bread adulterated, meat mostly horseflesh and rationed, as is wine—an unheard-of outrage. Even movies are German. Sentiment rises for Sicilian autonomy, fanned by the famous secret society, the Mafia, which Mussolini boasted he had suppressed.

For help Sicilians look across the Mediterranean to the British, always popular in the lovely island. The nearest large British force, in North Africa, is now 750 miles away. But that distance would be shortened if the British could again advance westward into Libya as they did last year. The German campaigning season is about to reopen with the British reinforced from South Africa and India, and from America with planes and especially tanks believed to be superior to the German tanks that stopped General Wavell's last try.

MAN ABOUT MANHATTAN
By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—Behind the major efforts of national defense, which got most of the publicity, is a minor one which almost invariably causes a roar of layman laughter and a disgusting snort about "What the heck are those guys in Washington up to anyway?" It's the construction of concrete ships to relieve the shipping shortage.

The United States Maritime Commission now has bids on hand for 100 such ships and before you join the "snorters," let me present the case for concrete ships. Since nobody contends that concrete ships ever will replace steel ones, or that a fleet of concrete freighters would ever be more than supplemental in an emergency, there's no need to go into any great debate on it.

In the first place, the 100 ships now proposed are oil tankers or barges—without motors. But they are ships, nevertheless. A floating freighter of 6,000 to 8,000 tons, between 300 and 400 feet long, with a 40-odd foot beam is no rowboat, even if it does have to have a tug or so alongside to get it places.

AN OFFICIAL of one shipbuilding firm (the Newport Concrete Shipbuilding Co.) who built concrete ships in the World War claims these barges will cost only about half what steel ones would. He also told me he had put into his bid an agreement to deliver the first concrete in 120 days from date of contract and a ship a week thereafter from a shipyard with only eight ways for as long as the government wanted to take them.

If he could live up to that, and only half of the 60-odd firms also bidding on the proposed 100 tankers could match it, think what would happen! It is our potential oil shortage if such a shipbuilding program had been started last spring to replace the motorship tankers turned over to Great Britain.

As for concrete ships, they are nothing new. There were about 35 built during the World War and although the building of 12 by the U. S. Shipping Board at a cost of some $80,000,000 has been described often as a fiasco, the 26 built for the Army proved something else again.

For instance, the trim little river steamer, Gen. D. H. Rucker, completed in 1919, plied the Potomac for nearly 20 years between Fort Hamilton and the Navy Yard and it probably would be in service yet if it hadn't caught fire and burned (not the concrete, of course, the wooden superstructure).

An interesting item in connection with the General Rucker is that in 1937, after it had been in service 18 years, the Army officially reported the total cost of repair and maintenance of its hull had been $35.

When one commentator recently deplored the talk of concrete tankers but suggested helpfully that tank cars might be loaded on railroad barges to relieve the possible petroleum shortage in the east, he overlooked the fact that some of the big railroad barges on the Mississippi are of concrete and at least one of them has been in service for more than 20 years.

A NUMBER of other concrete ships and barges did their stint for years. Even one of the old shipping board's 12 "mistakes" (resulting, according to some opinions now from faulty designing, hasty construction, and an attempt to build them too large) still is in use as a moored fish reduction plant at Point San Pablo, near Richmond, Calif.

Contrary to general conception, concrete hulls are only a few inches thick and inside the concrete are thick webs and lacings of steel "wire." The thing is that this reinforcement may be made from scrap—a big saving in steel—plate and 60 per cent or more of the labor required may be unskilled and drawn from a market that nearly always is overflowing. Concrete hulls are slightly heavier than steel ones, but lighter than wooden hulls.

That, in part, is the case for what some seapies have derisively described as the "floating bathtub." It was good enough to cause Chairman Rear Admiral Emory S. Land and the other members of the Maritime Commission to order a hundred of them, and don't think the rear admiral got his title by NOT knowing boats.

THE SONG OF BREAD

A man said in a prose poem that smacked of semi-Biblical beauty and truth:

"Love bread, heart of the home, savor of the repast, joy of health;

"Respect bread, sweat of the brow, pride of labor, poem of sacrifice;

"Honor bread, glory of the fields, fragrance of the earth, feast of life;

"Do not waste bread, richness of the fatherland, sweetest gift of God, most holy reward of human toil."

And his people believed him. They knew the truth of what he said long before he said it. For centuries upon centuries the peasant people carefully tilled their fields, sowed the wheat, reaped the harvest, turned it into flour, baked it into bread, made it the true staff of life not only for themselves, but for the poor and humble workers in the congested cities.

A little bread, a little wine, a little freedom was all the people asked. Then the man took their freedom away from them. But still they had their bread and their wine. Still they were fairly content, for they had peace with their simple meals.

Then the man took their peace away from them. He sent their sons into battles on the sea, on the land and in the air. They grieved, for they did not want the war. But still they had their bread.

Then the man took part of their bread away from them. He said the war made it necessary. He reminded them of the slogan he had painted and carved all over the country: "Work, obey, fight."

Still the people, the older people, worked and obeyed, while their sons fought. But there was hollowness in their stomachs and concealed bitterness and rebellion in their hearts.

The people are the Italians. The man is Mussolini. Hunger and privation and suffering and wounds and death are the price the people are paying for a Mussolini.

PATRIOTIC SONGS
Stirring songs to patriotic fervor is one of the jobs of songwriters in time of national emergency. You've no doubt heard all the songs mentioned below played recently.

1. Who wrote "Any Bonds Today" and "God Bless America."

2. What American and British patriotic songs are sung to the same tune?

3. When and on what occasion was the "Star-Spangled Banner" written?

4. What does a uniformed service man do when the national anthem is played?

5. What two patriotic songs emerged from the Civil War?

ACQUIRE MANSION SITE
Harrisburg, Oct. 22.—(P)—Two properties facing the Susquehanna river were acquired by the General State Authority at its first meeting since the return of Governor James from his Virginia honeymoon, for a proposed new executive mansion. A third property needed to complete the full city block desired for the dwelling and grounds had to be purchased. The Authority paid $153,000 for the two properties.

In Honolulu, about $350,000 worth of cut flowers are sold annually, mostly for making leis.

WE'RE PROUD TO ACCEPT

A country and its civilization may be judged by its prisons.

What sort of offenses send men to prison, how they are treated there, and with what objective, are a pretty good measure of a civilization.

Hitler has seen fit to sneer at the fact that men in American prisons are making goods for the American Army and Navy. But we're proud of it, and proud of the fact that they have increased their production of rubber mats, brushes, brooms, beds, steel shelving, and a dozen other items. Men sent to American prisons remain men, yes, and they remain Americans. Our purpose in sending them there is not only to protect society, but to give them a chance to rebuild their lives on a firmer foundation. We do not send them for political heresy to rot in concentration camps. We are proud of the fact that they are being allowed to learn skills, to contribute to a common effort. We are proud to accept that help.

STORIES IN STAMPS

Military Honors Fail To Win Comacho Office

SOUTH AMERICAN military leaders often enjoy a dominant position in the political life of their country. Many ranking soldiers are also high governmental officials.

Bolivia has had many soldier-presidents. One of the most illustrious soldiers, however, Elizardo Camacho, was twice an unsuccessful candidate for the country's highest office.

Camacho, who was honored in 1922 stamp above, was a distinguished general. Born Nov. 14, 1891, in Inquisivi, he interrupted his legal studies at the University of San Simon in 1917 to join the Luperon revolution.

He proved to be an outstanding soldier, was promoted upon to make the army his career and after moving through the ranks became chief of staff under President Frías. When the latter was overthrown, Camacho was forced into exile, but three years later he returned to lead the Bolivian army in the war against Chile.

Leader of the liberal party, he was defeated as a candidate for president in 1934 and 1937. He died Nov. 12, 1939.

CAUSE FOR CELEBRATION

In these days when most of the nations of the world are forgetting their higher ideals because of the conflicts being carried on, this country is fortunate to be able to continue its cultural activities—the activities that keep the minds of men and women on the progress of civilization rather than its destruction. Warren is fortunate in having many organizations devoted to the cultural side of life and one of these is the Philomel Club, which today enters upon its fiftieth year of existence. Many outstanding programs are being planned during this golden jubilee year and each will do much toward making the community a finer place in which to live.

With vacation season over, this is the time of year when country relatives leave a sign of relief.

Most people are more interested in pay day than in making every day pay.

Wherefore now let the fear of the Lord be upon you, take heed and do it: for there is no injury with the Lord our God, nor respect of persons, nor taking of gifts. —II Chronicles 19:7.

Military Honors Fail To Win Comacho Office

SOUTH AMERICAN military leaders often enjoy a dominant position in the political life of their country. Many ranking soldiers are also high governmental officials.

Bolivia has had many soldier-presidents. One of the most illustrious soldiers, however, Elizardo Camacho, was twice an unsuccessful candidate for the country's highest office.

Camacho, who was honored in 1922 stamp above, was a distinguished general. Born Nov. 14, 1891, in Inquisivi, he interrupted his legal studies at the University of San Simon in 1917 to join the Luperon revolution.

He proved to be an outstanding soldier, was promoted upon to make the army his career and after moving through the ranks became chief of staff under President Frías. When the latter was overthrown, Camacho was forced into exile, but three years later he returned to lead the Bolivian army in the war against Chile.

Leader of the liberal party, he was defeated as a candidate for president in 1934 and 1937. He died Nov. 12, 1939.

ANNIVERSARY OF WARREN CHURCH BEING PLANNED

The St. Paul's Lutheran church, located at 128 Water street, begins its 70th anniversary services next Sunday morning and continues through the week with programs on Sunday, Tuesday and Friday evenings, and three services on Sunday, November 2.

The final session on November 2 will be a "Reformation Festival", when the congregation will be joined by the members of the First Lutheran church and other Lutheran parishes of the district.

The same afternoon, a "Confirmation Reunion" will be held, with Rev. Vernon Serenius, of Minneapolis, Minn., former pastor, as the guest speaker.

A gift of an American and a Christian flag will be presented at the morning service next Sunday by the St. Paul's Lutheran Brotherhood. Miss Harriet Carlson and Harold Carlson will be flag bearers in this ceremony. Following presentation and dedication of the flags, a communion service will be held, in which Rev. Carl Jacobs, pastor of St. Paul's church from 1907 to 1930, will assist.

The Sunday evening service will be historical in character. J. F. Anderson will read a brief history of the church and a memorial service will be conducted to honor departed members. Rev. Jacobson will be the guest speaker and his topic is announced as "A Glorious Church." Many visitors and friends are expected to share with the membership the many memories that such a meeting engenders.

The anniversary committee, in charge of all arrangements for the celebration, consists of Robert Swanson, Richard Osterman, Sam Davis, Hilmar Roos and Harold Nelson.

TRIBUTE PAID TO MEMORY OF FATHER DIAMOND

At a recent meeting of the board of trustees of St. Joseph's Cemetery Association, resolutions of respect were adopted in memory of the late Rev. Father Joseph H. Diamond. The resolutions follow:

WHEREAS, on the 24th day of July, 1941, Father Diamond, one of the original trustees and treasurer of St. Joseph's Cemetery Association since its inception, died after a long and distressing illness.

WHEREAS, Father Diamond served our association through the years with untiring interest, with no thought except to have a beautiful cemetery, that would be a credit to the Catholic people of this section.

WHEREAS, it stands now, and will for years to come, as a monument to Father Diamond's ceaseless effort, and for a job well done.

WHEREAS, We as brother trustees feel that we have lost a friend and worthy adviser, and pray to the Good Lord that He may give us a worthy successor.

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the trustees of St. Joseph's Cemetery Association express its deep sorrow at the passing of Father Diamond, and that a copy of the resolution be sent to his brothers, spread upon the minutes of the meeting and published in the press.

Signed,
The Board of Trustees,

Edson's Washington Column

(From Page Four)
If the British drive close enough to Sicily to use Malta as a stepping stone, not only planes and tanks but troops might come from America, and through Italian-American efforts. A Free Italian army begins to take shape. In Canada officers and men are gathering, including volunteers from the U. S.

There has been no publicity for this crusade, nor for its counterpart on the other side of the world. In India are most of the nearly 200,000 Italian prisoners taken by the British. Among them enthusiasm for a Free Italy is being spread by Italian-American members of the Mazzini Society, newly-arrived in India to recruit volunteers to the Army of Liberation. They report very good results indeed. Free Italian paratroopers have already landed in Italy, although that meant death if they were caught. All Free Italians are eager not only to free Italy from the yoke of Fascism and the Gestapo, but to show the world that in such a cause, Italians will fight not run away or surrender.

Italian-Americans in New York and elsewhere are optimistic of success. They believe a British-led Free Italian invasion of Sicily would be an excellent diversion, forcing the Nazis to withdraw troops from the Russian front to "defend" Italy. They believe also that the sight of more of the hated Germans walking in on them would further infuriate the Italians and might even help precipitate revolt. Unlike the Czechs, Poles and others, the Italians still have arms. Italians here hope the revolt would spread to the Italian

Navy, where there is considerable pro-British sentiment—born partly of reluctant admiration.

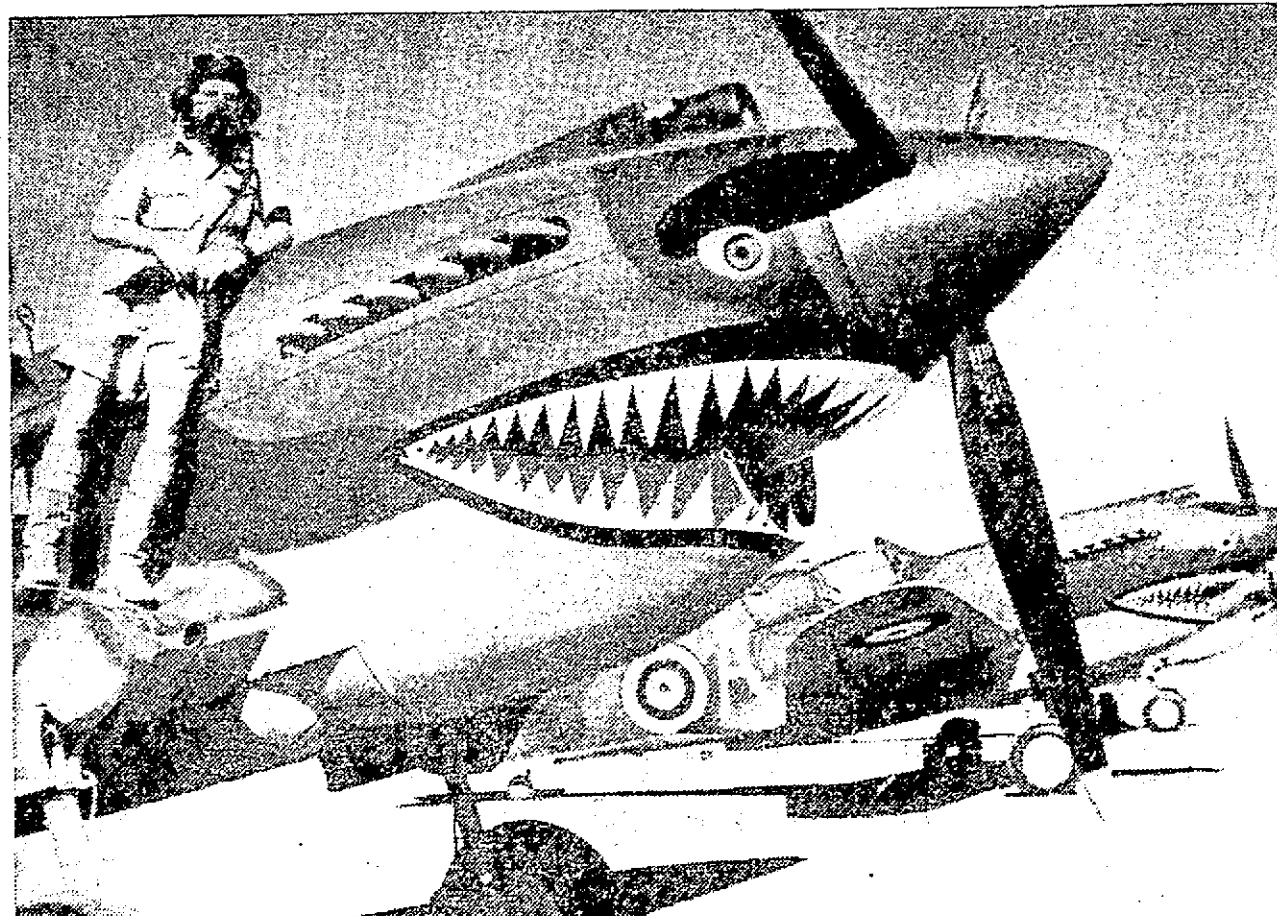

To be ready for even the possibility of such events, although they realize the efforts and difficulties involved, democratic Italians all over the world are talking of forming a Free Italian government-in-exile in which former foreign minister Count Carlo Sforza might be a leader.

BROCKWAY GLASS CO. TO SEEK INJUNCTION.

Pittsburgh, Oct. 22.—(P)—Federal Judge Nelson McVicar will hear arguments Monday on the request of a Jefferson county glass manufacturing company for an injunction to prevent an Oil City natural gas producer from shutting off fuel supplies for three of the glass firm's furnaces.

The injunction was asked yesterday by the Brockway Glass Company, Inc., Brockway, Pa., which said in its petition that failure to receive the gas supplies from the Sylvania Corporation would force the plant to suspend operations, throwing 450 employees into idleness and hampering production of $1,000,000 worth of orders.

Youngsville, Oct. 22 — Hazel Proper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ward Proper, North Main street, became the bride of Robert Giegerich, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Giegerich, of Alexandria, Va., on Saturday. The ceremony was performed in the presence of the immediate families at Tidouite by Father Joseph McTague. Margaret Jane Lucas was bridesmaid and Gerald Giegerich was his brother's best man.

The bride wore grape velvet, matching hat and a corsage of Tallman roses; also a pearl necklace, gift from the bridegroom. Miss Lucas wore a red rose corsage with soldier blue velvet.

A wedding breakfast was served at Brady's restaurant, the party including five grandparents of the newlyweds and a great-grandmother. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Ward Proper, Alton Proper; Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Giegerich, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Giegerich, Alexandria; A. R. Giegerich, Warren; Mrs. G. N. Poppleton, Sharon; Mrs. Lucy Proper, Titusville; Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Bunce and Mrs. Henry Astory, South Dayton, N. Y.

A reception followed at the bride's home, where a great many relatives and friends of the young people gathered.

Later, the couple left for a Canadian wedding trip. Upon their return, they will reside on Fourth street. Mr. Giegerich is employed by the National Forge and Ordnance Company at Irvine and a well known member of the National Forge baseball team.

Pre-nuptial parties for the bride-elect have been given by Mrs. Helen Lee Patch, of this place, and Miss Ruth Eckardt, of Warren.

Announcement is made that Cora F. Rea, of Warren, and Frederick L. Smeal, of Kane, were united in marriage at ten o'clock Saturday night at the home of Mrs. F. M. Moore, North Irvine street.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. H. Clemens, retired pastor of Grace Methodist church, in the presence of the following: Mr. and Mrs. Ira Smeal, of Clearfield, parents of the bridegroom; Mr. and Mrs. Merle Albaugh, of Clearfield, his brother-in-law and sister; Mrs. Mary Estes and Mr. and Mrs. Moore, of Warren.

After a short wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Smeal will reside on Tionesta street, Kane, where the former is manager of Browns Boot Shop.

OLDSMOBILE

Offering HYDRA-MATIC DRIVE

THE GENERAL MOTORS CONTRIBUTION TO SAFER, MORE EFFICIENT DRIVING!

ALTHOUGH the number of cars Oldsmobile will build this year is limited, the quality is better than ever. Many materials have been eliminated because of their vital value to defense. In their place, Oldsmobile engineers have devised other materials, equally good or better. All Oldsmobiles will continue to offer Hydra-Matic Drive, the most efficient method of car operation ever developed. Hydra-Matic saves 10 to 15 per cent on gasoline. It saves time in traffic because it is always in the right gear. It saves effort because it eliminates all clutch pushing and all manual gear shifting. It makes driving safer because it gives better traction, and provides a special pick-up gear for passing. We are now offering special demonstrations of Hydra-Matic Drive in the Olds B-44. Come, try it!

SHELL AND CANNON FOR THE U.S.A.!

Full speed ahead for national defense, regardless of anything else! That's the slogan at Oldsmobile. Right now, high-caliber shells for the field artillery are coming off the line by thousands daily—and automatic cannons for fighting planes are going into mass production.

Chapter Seven
Off To Camp

"THEY probably had plenty to talk over," hinted Ginny. "Maybe they did want to take you with them. Maybe they had something to tell you that you ought to know. Something you'd see for yourself. If you weren't such a proud little fool, Marry Riv, I would too, but don't let him give you the runaround before you say 'I do'."

"What do you mean, Ginny?" But Ginny closed her small mouth tightly and avoided Sue Ellen's puzzled glance. "Nothing. Only sing for the man if he wants you to sing. I told him I'd coax you to do it and he probably thinks it takes a lot of coaxing."

Sue Ellen turned and walked toward the piano. Ginny motioned to Johnny and Deedora. "What shall I sing?" Sue Ellen ran her finger up and down the keys and her glance avoided Johnny's keen eyes.

"On Susanna—" Ginny stooped and whispered: "Give him the old Mississippi charm. That's the idea. Now, then, so called damned Yankees what we have to offer. Cut out hanging your head and show some spirit."

"Like this?" Sue Ellen flashed a smile at Johnny who had stepped back to join Toby who had just come in. Good old Toby, good old Ginny. They were her friends; she must not let them down.

She would show these Yankees what it meant to be a southern girl. They thought you soft and helpless, they thought you relied upon beauty and background and carry you through. She would show them. She'd show everyone in Tyler Springs as well that she could find a way to preserve her own self-respect.

That was the underlying principle of the program under way at the capital and throughout the nation—to preserve self-respect. All right then, she as an individual must show the same. She would marry Riv, yes, but in the meantime she would not sit and weep and hang her head and wait for Riv to make up his mind to do what he knew by his duty.

Meaning what, she asked herself, as she sang through the stirring measures of the song, with Ginny's black eyes sparkling approval and something in Johnny's face which threatened to make her forget all her resolutions and wonder if it was desire for friendship or some thing deeper which she read in this tall man's eyes.

She ended the song with a flourish and swung about, her eyes brilliant—her cheeks flushed—her heart warmed by a determination that after today things must be different between herself and Riv. Riv was weak—so she must be strong.

Bad Manners

WHEN Sue Ellen finished her song and looked up from the piano, she found that a group of men in uniform had gathered just beyond her. Ginny and Toby stood talking to them, but Johnny Harris had not moved from beside the piano and the expression in his steady eyes confused her.

"You liked the song?" He answered: "I've always liked that song." He moved closer and stood with his rough woepwood sleeve touching her bare arm.

Sue Ellen arose and moved away. "It's a southern song." He smiled. "I know. My father sang it to me when I was a youngster. Your Aunt Carolina taught it to him overseas." He explained: "My mother died when I was three. I never knew her."

"Your father never married again?" He shook his head and without being told she knew that John Harris had always loved the girl who allowed her family to break up her marriage. It was odd to associate a lasting romance with Aunt Carolina.

"I never knew that northerners were so romantic," she said in amazement, and then blushed furiously for having shown any interest in the affairs of Johnny Harris and his father.

"You know very little about northerners," he said coolly. "I can begin to understand a great many things about my father since I met you, Miss Sue Ellen."

"You know very little about southerners or you would understand why my grandfather presented Aunt Carolina's marriage to a common soldier," she said in soliloquy.

She had been rude, unkind, and it was quite unlike her to hurt anyone intentionally even though she might dislike them, but this quiet man aroused a feeling of such bitter antagonism that she found herself shaking with anger as she walked away.

"I have a headache. I'm going outside," she told Ginny.

She walked rapidly toward the outside door and when she reached it became aware that she was not alone. Johnny Harris had followed her.

He was angry, too. His face was flushed and his grey eyes dark and stormy. His voice was low and controlled as he spoke, but a little muscle twitched in his lean cheek and the line of his square jaw was hard and tense. "You thoroughly dislike me, Miss Sue Ellen," he said flatly.

"Dislike you?" It took the greatest effort to control her voice. "Yes, Dislike me. Everything I say irritates you. My presence annoys you. I am sorry because my father was anxious for me to meet your aunt, and he wanted us to be friends. However, if I have caused you annoyance, I can promise that in the future I shall not repeat my call at Magnolia House. I shall attempt to keep out of your way."

There was something frightening in his statement. It was that she wanted to see no more of him, and yet—she found herself saying: "How ridiculous for you to think that. I hate that type of singing." She waved her hand toward the door through which a number of eager singing sweeps had come. "I have a headache and I am leaving."

She wasammering, confused, and held out his hand. "Shall we forget what I said?"

She had no alternative but to place her hand in his strong firm fingers and he held it a minute looking down at it and smiling half to himself.

"It's a useless hand," she spoke to her own thought. "It's a very beautiful hand," he said simply.

Sound Advice

JUST then Ginny appeared at the door. "Here you are. Is your head better?" She chattered on. "Listen to Toby. He says he'll have to sing those songs soon and he might as well practice. Go in and see if you can persuade him that we are going to sing."

Sue Ellen brushed a speck of dust from the jacket she'd thrown around her shoulders. "Dislike him? I think nothing whatever about him. Why should I?"

"Because I don't know a better way to bring Riv Moore to heel than to flirt with that Yankee."

"I don't need to bring Riv to heel, as you so crudely put it. Riv and I are engaged and have been for years. Think you think it's none of my business, and it isn't, but when a man plans to marry a girl and then runs after Deedora Waller the way Riv does—I'd do something about it. I certainly would."

Sue Ellen's face whitened. "You probably think this a friendly way to warn me about something I don't know already. Well, I do know about Deedora. Colonel Moore depends upon Deedora's father for some important contracts in Washington and Riv has to follow the Colonel's orders as long as he's dependent upon him. Doesn't he?" She added the last with a half apology to herself for showing even a shade of doubt in regard to Riv's loyalty.

Ginny said: "Sometimes you haven't liked me, Sue—that's because I spill out just what I think, and I think plenty about Riv Moore and the way he treats you. He's a good catch for any girl. I wouldn't turn him down myself, but I'd show him that while he flirted with Deedora Waller I could have a bit of fun myself. Believe me, he wouldn't like it."

Ginny regarded her severely. "Take my advice. Marriage is your career. It's the only one you're trained for. You can't let Riv slip through your fingers, but you'll never hold him, snubbing every other man who looks at you with favor. Give Riv a taste of his own medicine. Johnny Harris adores you and more than that, Deedora Waller wants him."

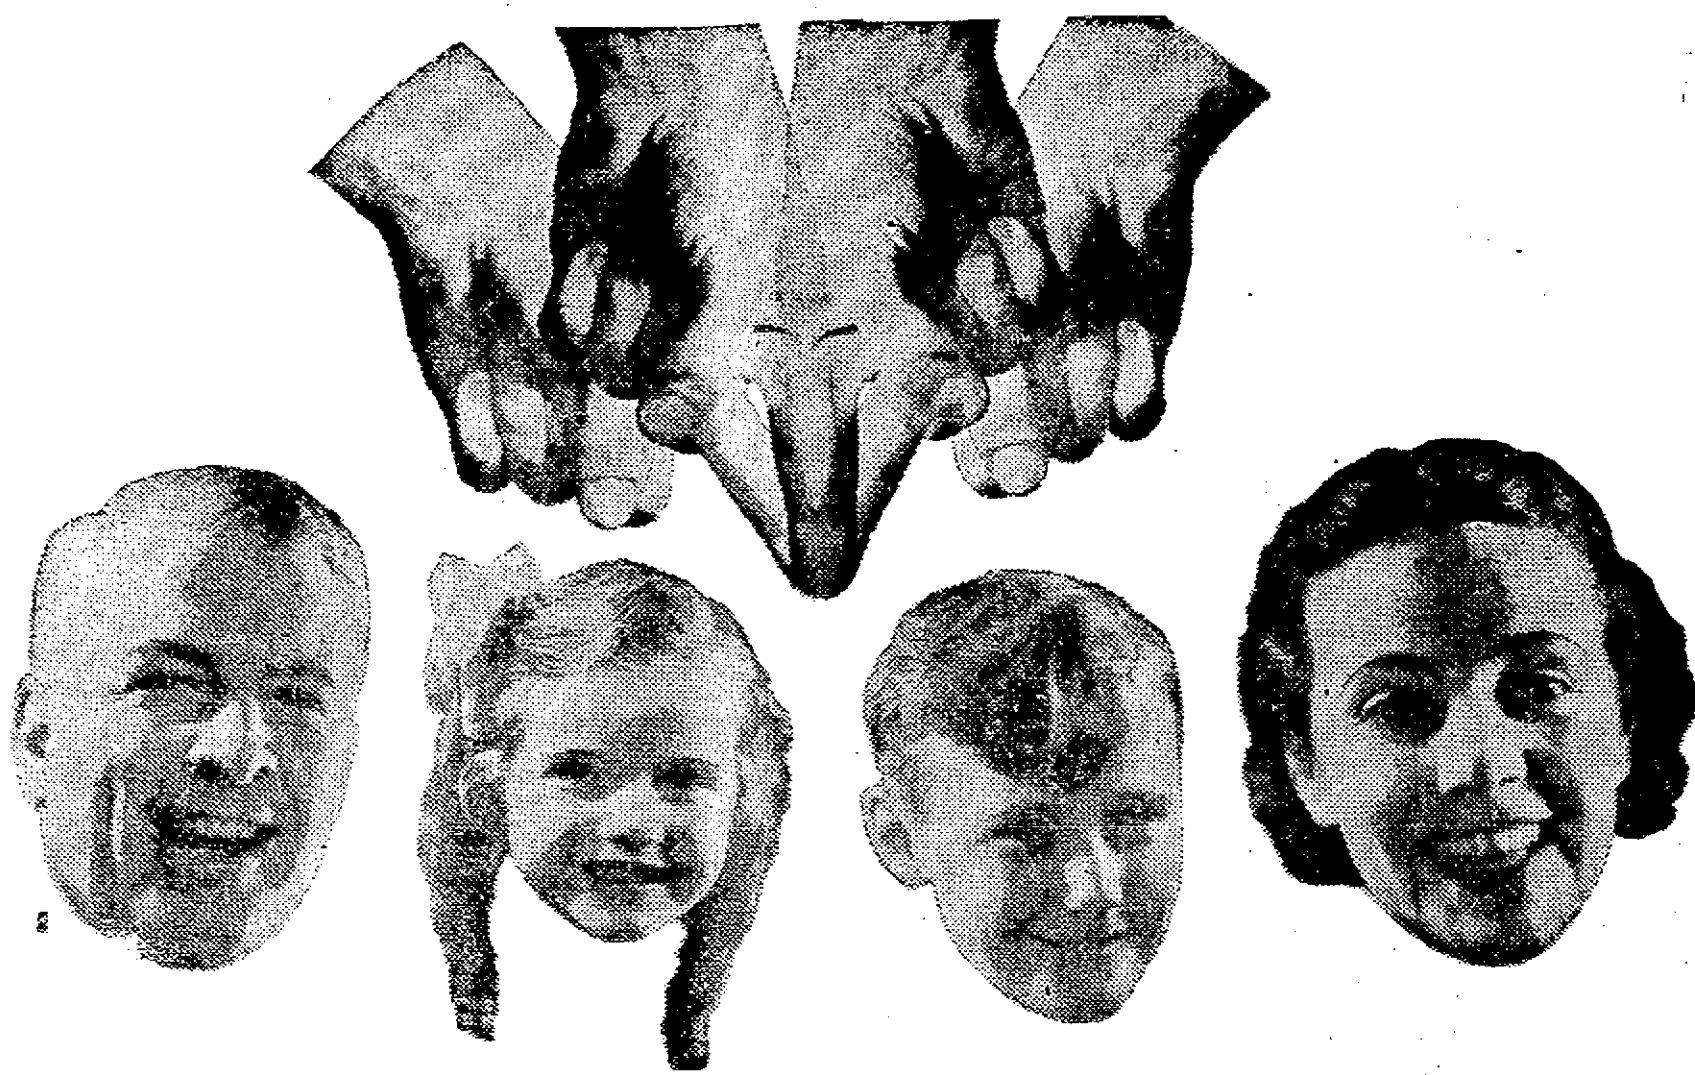

"You just said she wanted Riv."

"I never," Ginny shook her dark head positively. "When she first came down here, Riv's smooth line got her and the Colonel liked the idea. They were around together a lot last summer in Washington and the Colonel still may have the idea, but not Deedora. She's let everyone know that she likes Harris. His father's in Washington; that's where she met him and he has more money than the Colonel. The Colonel's a phony," finished Ginny contemptuously.

Ginny turned to greet Toby and Johnny. Sue Ellen wondered, was Ginny right? Was she a fool to let everyone know how determined she was to marry Riv? Would it be better to be indifferent to Riv and his flirtations? What would cause Riv more annoyance than for her to show an interest in Johnny Harris?

GIRL IS KILLED IN CLEARFIELD MISHAP

Clearfield, Pa., Oct. 22.—(A.P.)—Thirteen-year-old Helen Wetzel, of nearby Burnside, was killed last night by an automobile which struck her as she walked along a highway near her home. Her brother, walking with her, escaped unhurt.

Coroner E. S. Erhard said an inquest would be held later this week. Dr. Erhard reported that the driver of the car said he failed to see Miss Wetzel because his vision was obstructed by steam from the boiling radiator of his car.

The lizard's tail separates from his body easily and without loss of blood. Even fright is enough to cause it to detach itself.

Further Revision of the Neutrality Act to Permit U. S. Ships Free Range by saying he had sent a message on that and that if it were read it would grow on the reader. He wanted that cleared up for himself. Early continued, so he asked the president about it this morning.

The senate foreign relations committee heard witnesses opposing the administration's armed ship bill today and one of them, former Senator David A. Reed, of Pennsylvania, said he had testified that arming American merchantmen would be ineffective and would increase the nation's chances of involvement in the war.

Reed, who appeared at a closed meeting, told reporters he was against the ship arming measure "because I want to see the country stay at peace. This bill is a step toward war."

Reed said he approved the lend-lease program and other administration foreign policies, although opposing any change in the neutrality act.

Another new factor was the demand by Wendell L. Willkie and 100 of the country's leading Republican figures for flat repeal of the entire act.

The big question apparently was no longer senate concurrence in the house-approved revision which would permit the arming of ships but whether the house resolution would be broadened to end all present prohibitions on the movements of American flag ships to belligerent ports or through combat zones.

Advocates of outright repeal indicated they had no doubts about the approval of ship arming, particularly after yesterday's announcement of the sinking of the Leigh and the Bold Venture.

The new sinkings put American-owned ship losses on a one-a-week average for the period since Sept. 6. Other ships sunk in the period were Steel Seafarer, Montanan, Pink Star and I. C. White. In the previous two years only four American-owned ships went to the bottom.

With the foreign relations committee convening to hear opposition witnesses on the armed ship bill, Chairman Connally (D-Tex.) told reporters it was obvious "Germany will pay no attention to our combat zones or to her own—she will sink any ships she can any time she can get them."

"But every time Germany sinks a ship, it makes it more certain that our vessels will be armed promptly. There is no reason why our ships should have to let German submarines come up and play with them like a cat with a mouse. If they are armed, they may be able to keep some of these raiders below the surface."

Although emphasizing his conviction that American merchantmen should be armed, Connally reiterated his view that congress likewise should lift the restriction on American ship movements.

Sinkings Occur Off African Coast and In Iceland Waters

A little later, the chief executive asserted that Secretary of State Hull was dead right in calling such action piracy.

The president's press conference had scarcely dispersed before the Bold Venture joined the Leigh on the day's sinking list. The first reports originated in New York maritime circles and later the Treasury Department confirmed that this freighter had gone to the bottom on route from Baltimore to England with a cargo of cotton, steel, copper, and general merchandise.

News of the two sinkings aroused ardent administration supporters in congress, and at least one critic, Senator Tatt (R-Ohio), said that the Leigh's case, judging by available facts, appeared without justification or any excuse.

To Chairman Connally (D-Tex.) of the senate foreign relations committee, the Leigh's case was proof that "the Germans will sink our ships whenever they can get to them—they don't respect combat zones or anything else."

Fiercy Senator Pepper (D-Fla.) wanted the navy given "orders to sink two German boats to every American vessel."

However, Mr. Roosevelt told his press conference that you've got to see something before you can shoot at it.

The president advised the conference to use the process of elimination to arrive at the nationality of the attacking submarine.

It certainly wasn't a British submarine, or a French submarine.

Where were these submarines in the south Atlantic coming from?

Some were operating from bases in occupied France, Mr. Roosevelt said, and some were being refueled at sea by tankers from the same relative area. The trouble was that the refueling spot varied and was difficult to locate.

The president was asked if the Leigh was the type ship that would be armed if the neutrality act is modified to permit the arming of guns.

Yes, said Mr. Roosevelt, he supposed so.

He added that from the way things were going now, we might have to arm ships even going to Cuba, because we didn't know where they were safe.

Washington, Oct. 22.—(A.P.)—Secretary of State Hull today labeled the torpedoing of the American freighter Leigh off Africa as an act "in harmony with all the
